

Screwfix nails its order management process

LONDON 27th November – Screwfix, the UK’s leading multi-channel supplier of tools, accessories and hardware products to the trade has selected Wesupply to deliver a fully-managed electronic trading service for its purchase order management process in order to improve supplier collaboration and supply chain visibility.

“The Wesupply solution will enable Screwfix and its suppliers to have a common view of the full purchase order to invoice cycle. In addition to enabling the real-time exchange of critical business documents, visibility across multiple suppliers will help Screwfix to improve product availability, reduce excess inventory and improve invoice-matching rates, thus increasing overall supply chain performance and flexibility” said Scott Parsons, Head of Supply Chain at Screwfix.

“Screwfix has a clear understanding of its B2B vision and we are delighted to be working with them to support this” said Bob Godfrey, CEO, Wesupply. “There is a growing recognition in the industry of the value to be realised through the implementation of collaborative, network-based solutions. Screwfix will use our managed service to collaborate with its supply chain partners.”

Screwfix will be using the Wesupply Business Process Platform to automate the exchange of orders, invoices and advance shipment notices with its suppliers and will be taking advantage of Wesupply’s powerful business activity monitoring technology to capture errors, generate alerts and report on key performance indicators based on their own specific business rules.

About Wesupply

Wesupply provides business-to-business integration and supply chain collaboration solutions for retailers and manufacturers. Unlike supply chain software companies Wesupply recognises the importance of technically integrating companies with all of their supply chain partners. Unlike traditional B2B integration providers, Wesupply has the supply chain expertise and the on-demand software functionality to directly measure and improve supply chain performance.
